Are you wondering how you can increase your chances of having your study funded by KCE Trials?

Attend the KCE Trials workshop, aimed at chief investigators and their teams who intend to submit a research proposal to the 2021 investigator-led call!

All interested investigators are invited to participate in these online afternoon workshops. It will combine sessions on scientific and practical aspects of proposal development, with tips and tricks to pre-empt the most frequent comments from the Trials methodology review Board. There will be ample time for Q&A however please note that the focus is not individual feedback on a specific proposal.

Why attend?

The information from this workshop will help you understand the scope and improve the quality of your trial outline. By having an overview of the review process and what is required, you should increase your chances of success and reduce timelines to funding.
